TRADING IS BRISK

Supply Somewhat Limited, HowBoiling chickens, pound.
Broilers, pound.
Br Responsible.

A limited supply and a brisk demand for foodstuffs generally has characterized trade at the Center Market for the last two or three days, and vegetables, rapidly.

Washington housewives whose custom it is to put up their own preserves and jellies as well as those who also prefer to can their own vegetables for winter use, are watching the booths closely and nothing has spoiled there for want of a buyer. One marked rise in meats this week was in dried chipped beef, which has jumped from 40 to 50 cents a pound. Steaks and pork are steady,

Fresh eggs are retailing for 40 cents which is high for this time of the year but the farmers are not bringing them in the usual quantities. Storage eggs may be had as low as 30 cents. Butter prices range from 35 cents for renovated to 40 for the best creamery.

What is true of eggs is also true to a arge extent of poultry, and frying chickens give no indication of going below 25 cents a pound. Roosters are seiling for 15 cents, however, and good boiling chickens for 22 cents a pound.
